Cornell University is a community of scholars, known for intellectual rigor and engaged in deep and broad research, teaching tomorrow’s thought leaders to think otherwise, care for others, and create and disseminate knowledge with a public purpose.

Cornell is seeking candidates for a visiting appointment for two semesters beginning in August 2014. Responsibilities include teaching studios in drawing, sculpture, and possibly supervising undergraduate thesis work.

The successful candidate will have teaching experience, exhibition and research practice, and be actively involved in professional art activity on a national scale. Candidates should have demonstrated proficiency and interest in teaching outside of their primary area of interest, including cross-disciplinary dialogue, and theory and critical practice at the undergraduate level. The position requires an M.F.A.

The Department of Art is part of the College of Architecture, Art, and Planning, and offers the B.F.A. and M.F.A. degrees with a strong liberal arts component. The department enjoys a strong relationship with Cornell’s Herbert F. Johnson Museum of Art and academic units across campus. Art faculty and students have access to extensive traditional and digital production facilities in the college as well as to the resources of a major research university.

Required Application Materials:

1. Letter of application, including statement of teaching philosophy
2. Full curriculum vitae
3. Examples of course syllabi
4. Ten (10) images of own work and ten (10) images of work by students
5. Three (3) references with telephone numbers, mailing addresses, and email addresses

Please submit all application materials digitally via Interfolio.

Applications will be reviewed through May 1, 2014, until a pool of candidates is selected.

Cornell is an innovative Ivy League university and a great place to work. Our inclusive community of scholars, students, and staff impart an uncommon sense of larger purpose and contribute creative ideas to further the university’s mission of teaching, discovery and engagement. Located in Ithaca, New York, Cornell’s far-flung global presence includes the medical college’s campuses on the Upper East Side of Manhattan and Doha, Qatar, as well as the new CornellNYC Tech campus to be built on Roosevelt Island in the heart of New York City.

Diversity and inclusion are a part of Cornell’s heritage. We’re an employer and educator recognized for valuing AA/EEO, Protected Veterans, and Individuals with Disabilities.
