DEPARTMENT OF ARCHITECTURE Richard Meier Professorship of Architecture

The Department of Architecture in the College of Architecture, Art, and Planning at Cornell University seeks candidates for a tenure-track appointment in architectural design at the rank of Assistant Professor. The endowed Richard Meier Professorship of Architecture is named in honor of Cornell alumnus Richard Meier, whose commitment to design excellence is a hallmark of Cornell's world-renowned architecture program.

Architecture at Cornell dates back to the founding of the institution; it is one of the oldest programs of its kind and has a long and distinguished tradition of design, scholarship, and teaching. Degree programs in the Department include: professional B.Arch., professional M.Arch., post-professional M.Arch. II, Ph.D. in the history of architecture and urban development, and MS in computer graphics. New facilities and evolving degree programs reflect both a continuing commitment to excellence and an ongoing renewal of architectural education at Cornell. The Department welcomes interest in developing greater interdisciplinary collaboration within the College and the University as a whole, with its wealth of humanistic, artistic, scientific, and technological resources. Beyond the institution, the Department seeks to build upon its already extensive contacts and interactions both in the U.S. and internationally.

The Department invites applications for this distinguished titled professorship. The successful applicant must demonstrate accomplishment and promise in the area of architectural design, hold a professional degree in architecture, and must show excellence in core and advanced studio instruction as well as in practice and research.

Required Application Materials:

1. Letter of application including a brief statement outlining teaching and practice/research objectives
2. A full curriculum vitae
3. One portfolio including the applicant's work as well as work produced by the applicant's students.
4. A list of three references with telephone numbers, mailing addresses, and email addresses

All applicants should submit these materials in both hard-copy and digital format (see postal and e-mail addresses below). Please note that hard-copy application materials will not be returned.
