The Department of Architecture in the College of Architecture, Art, and Planning at Cornell University invites applications for one or more visiting faculty term positions beginning in fall 2014. The duration of these visiting appointments will typically be for one semester or two semesters but may be up to three years, depending on the qualifications and interests of the candidates as well as the Department’s academic needs.

Applicants should possess a strong teaching record, graduate and/or professional degrees in architecture or associated fields, evidence of significant research and creative work related to design and contemporary practice, and expertise in one or more of the following fields of investigation: architectural theory, urbanism, sustainability and environmental systems, digital media, and emergent technologies.

Required Application Materials:
1. a brief cover letter
2. a full curriculum vita
3. a concise statement describing areas of expertise, research focus and objectives, approach to pedagogy, and brief descriptions of possible elective seminars
4. representative examples of scholarship and/or design practice
5. a list of three references with telephone and fax numbers, mailing addresses, and email addresses

Please note that hard-copy application materials will not be returned.

All applicants should submit their materials to:
